Biography

Sid Burston, who stars as Pastor Charles Wright in the film Reunion, dispels the myth that creativity does not intermix with sound business planning and exceptional management skills. This Shakespearean style actor has received standing ovations throughout the country for his extraordinary portrayal of the protagonists in numerous productions. In Get Thee Behind Me! Sid epitomizes danger as the mobster, ICE. In Tell Hell I Ain't Coming.... Sid chilled the hearts of audiences by playing the role of SATAN. In Woman at the Well, Sid is the ultimate Bad Boy as he plays the handsome, sexy, and audacious physician, JAY. In the films, Red Herring, Dolemite 2000, Streetwise, Random Acts of Violence and Boulevard Gangs, Sid depicts the dangers of drug trafficking by playing sadistic drug lords. Whether acting on film or stage, Sid Burston is acknowledged by all as an actor-extraordinaire.

Given his exceptional skill as an actor, it is somewhat surprising that Sid is also a brilliant writer, a skilled director, an astute executive producer, and a gifted songwriter, arranger and composer. Yet, he does, indeed, embody the intermixture of each of these competencies. He has authored, staged, and toured seven highly acclaimed gospel musical stage plays-- Calling All Saints, Lord, Holler if You H'ear Me!, Diary of A Drunk Man's Dream, Woman at the Well I and II, Thrill and, most recently, Get Thee Behind Me. He also co-authored the historic stage play, Out of Darkness.

In addition to his work as a playwright, Sid also wrote, directed and produced the movie, Elusive Behavior. He is currently completing the film script Mississippi Blue for the Mississippi Valley State University Film Series. Sid, the President and EEO of FalkonQuest Productions, is truly a man who has been blessed by God.
